

SPHALERITE-CALCITE

The name sphalerite is from the Greek word "sphaleros" which means deceiving or treacherous. Also known as zinc blende and blackjack, Its most commonly silver and grey, but can also be seen as red, black, yellow, brown, green, and colorless. Sphalerite got its name from it constantly being confused with Galena. It's very common to find Sphalerite formed with a variety of minerals such as Fluorite, Pyrite, Galena, Dolomite, Quartz, and Calcite.

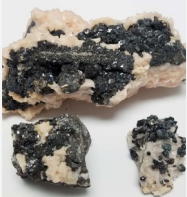

Sphalerite helps us to distinguish truth from fantasy. In this way, Sphalerite is a stone that protects us by helping us to protect ourselves. Calcite helps to clear stagnant and blocked energies from one's energy fields.

SPHALERITE-CALCITE

The name sphalerite is from the Greek word "sphaleros" which means deceiving or treacherous. Also known as zinc blende and blackjack, Its most commonly silver and grey, but can also be seen as red, black, yellow, brown, green, and colorless. Sphalerite got its name from it constantly being confused with Galena. It's very common to find Sphalerite formed with a variety of minerals such as Fluorite, Pyrite, Galena, Dolomite, Quartz, and Calcite.

Sphalerite helps us to distinguish truth from fantasy. In this way, Sphalerite is a stone that protects us by helping us to protect ourselves. Calcite helps to clear stagnant and blocked energies from one's energy fields.

SPHALERITE-CALCITE

The name sphalerite is from the Greek word "sphaleros" which means deceiving or treacherous. Also known as zinc blende and blackjack, Its most commonly silver and grey, but can also be seen as red, black, yellow, brown, green, and colorless. Sphalerite got its name from it constantly being confused with Galena. It's very common to find Sphalerite formed with a variety of minerals such as Fluorite, Pyrite, Galena, Dolomite, Quartz, and Calcite.

Sphalerite helps us to distinguish truth from fantasy. In this way, Sphalerite is a stone that protects us by helping us to protect ourselves. Calcite helps to clear stagnant and blocked energies from one's energy fields.

SPHALERITE-CALCITE

The name sphalerite is from the Greek word "sphaleros" which means deceiving or treacherous. Also known as zinc blende and blackjack, Its most commonly silver and grey, but can also be seen as red, black, yellow, brown, green, and colorless. Sphalerite got its name from it constantly being confused with Galena. It's very common to find Sphalerite formed with a variety of minerals such as Fluorite, Pyrite, Galena, Dolomite, Quartz, and Calcite.

Sphalerite helps us to distinguish truth from fantasy. In this way, Sphalerite is a stone that protects us by helping us to protect ourselves. Calcite helps to clear stagnant and blocked energies from one's energy fields.

SPHALERITE-CALCITE

The name sphalerite is from the Greek word "sphaleros" which means deceiving or treacherous. Also known as zinc blende and blackjack, Its most commonly silver and grey, but can also be seen as red, black, yellow, brown, green, and colorless. Sphalerite got its name from it constantly being confused with Galena. It's very common to find Sphalerite formed with a variety of minerals such as Fluorite, Pyrite, Galena, Dolomite, Quartz, and Calcite.

Sphalerite helps us to distinguish truth from fantasy. In this way, Sphalerite is a stone that protects us by helping us to protect ourselves. Calcite helps to clear stagnant and blocked energies from one's energy fields.

SPHALERITE-CALCITE

The name sphalerite is from the Greek word "sphaleros" which means deceiving or treacherous. Also known as zinc blende and blackjack, Its most commonly silver and grey, but can also be seen as red, black, yellow, brown, green, and colorless. Sphalerite got its name from it constantly being confused with Galena. It's very common to find Sphalerite formed with a variety of minerals such as Fluorite, Pyrite, Galena, Dolomite, Quartz, and Calcite.

Sphalerite helps us to distinguish truth from fantasy. In this way, Sphalerite is a stone that protects us by helping us to protect ourselves. Calcite helps to clear stagnant and blocked energies from one's energy fields.