

BLACK MOONSTONE

Black Moonstone is unusual because although the pieces look like they are colored black at first glance, when they are moved they have a lovely silver grey sheen. Many of these dark stones have peach lines through them, and like many peach colored stones they are associated with the sacral or navel chakra. Rubbing your fingers across the stone can promote calm if you are feeling stressed.

BLACK MOONSTONE

Black Moonstone is unusual because although the pieces look like they are colored black at first glance, when they are moved they have a lovely silver grey sheen. Many of these dark stones have peach lines through them, and like many peach colored stones they are associated with the sacral or navel chakra. Rubbing your fingers across the stone can promote calm if you are feeling stressed.

BLACK MOONSTONE

Black Moonstone is unusual because although the pieces look like they are colored black at first glance, when they are moved they have a lovely silver grey sheen. Many of these dark stones have peach lines through them, and like many peach colored stones they are associated with the sacral or navel chakra. Rubbing your fingers across the stone can promote calm if you are feeling stressed.

BLACK MOONSTONE

Black Moonstone is unusual because although the pieces look like they are colored black at first glance, when they are moved they have a lovely silver grey sheen. Many of these dark stones have peach lines through them, and like many peach colored stones they are associated with the sacral or navel chakra. Rubbing your fingers across the stone can promote calm if you are feeling stressed.

BLACK MOONSTONE

Black Moonstone is unusual because although the pieces look like they are colored black at first glance, when they are moved they have a lovely silver grey sheen. Many of these dark stones have peach lines through them, and like many peach colored stones they are associated with the sacral or navel chakra. Rubbing your fingers across the stone can promote calm if you are feeling stressed.

BLACK MOONSTONE

Black Moonstone is unusual because although the pieces look like they are colored black at first glance, when they are moved they have a lovely silver grey sheen. Many of these dark stones have peach lines through them, and like many peach colored stones they are associated with the sacral or navel chakra. Rubbing your fingers across the stone can promote calm if you are feeling stressed.