

Dogtooth Calcite

These specimens are known as Dogtooth Calcite or Dogtooth Spar. Forming through mineral precipitation of water-borne Calcite, they are normally found in limestone caves but can also grow in any open space including veins, fractures and geodes.

Dogtooth Calcite

These specimens are known as Dogtooth Calcite or Dogtooth Spar. Forming through mineral precipitation of water-borne Calcite, they are normally found in limestone caves but can also grow in any open space including veins, fractures and geodes.

Dogtooth Calcite

These specimens are known as Dogtooth Calcite or Dogtooth Spar. Forming through mineral precipitation of water-borne Calcite, they are normally found in limestone caves but can also grow in any open space including veins, fractures and geodes.

Dogtooth Calcite

These specimens are known as Dogtooth Calcite or Dogtooth Spar. Forming through mineral precipitation of water-borne Calcite, they are normally found in limestone caves but can also grow in any open space including veins, fractures and geodes.

Dogtooth Calcite

These specimens are known as Dogtooth Calcite or Dogtooth Spar. Forming through mineral precipitation of water-borne Calcite, they are normally found in limestone caves but can also grow in any open space including veins, fractures and geodes.

Dogtooth Calcite

These specimens are known as Dogtooth Calcite or Dogtooth Spar. Forming through mineral precipitation of water-borne Calcite, they are normally found in limestone caves but can also grow in any open space including veins, fractures and geodes.