

Goniatite Fossil

Pikes Peak Rock Shop

Goniatites lived during the Carboniferous Period, about 300 million years ago. Only a single relative of the Goniatite lives today, the pearly Nautilus of the south Pacific. Goniatite's probably had heads with well developed eyes, as well as grasping tentacles. They swam by squirting water out of the body cavity.

Goniatite Fossil

Pikes Peak Rock Shop

Goniatites lived during the Carboniferous Period, about 300 million years ago. Only a single relative of the Goniatite lives today, the pearly Nautilus of the south Pacific. Goniatite's probably had heads with well developed eyes, as well as grasping tentacles. They swam by squirting water out of the body cavity.

Goniatite Fossil

Pikes Peak Rock Shop

Goniatites lived during the Carboniferous Period, about 300 million years ago. Only a single relative of the Goniatite lives today, the pearly Nautilus of the south Pacific. Goniatite's probably had heads with well developed eyes, as well as grasping tentacles. They swam by squirting water out of the body cavity.

Goniatite Fossil

Pikes Peak Rock Shop

Goniatites lived during the Carboniferous Period, about 300 million years ago. Only a single relative of the Goniatite lives today, the pearly Nautilus of the south Pacific. Goniatite's probably had heads with well developed eyes, as well as grasping tentacles. They swam by squirting water out of the body cavity.

Goniatite Fossil

Pikes Peak Rock Shop

Goniatites lived during the Carboniferous Period, about 300 million years ago. Only a single relative of the Goniatite lives today, the pearly Nautilus of the south Pacific. Goniatite's probably had heads with well developed eyes, as well as grasping tentacles. They swam by squirting water out of the body cavity.

Goniatite Fossil

Pikes Peak Rock Shop

Goniatites lived during the Carboniferous Period, about 300 million years ago. Only a single relative of the Goniatite lives today, the pearly Nautilus of the south Pacific. Goniatite's probably had heads with well developed eyes, as well as grasping tentacles. They swam by squirting water out of the body cavity.